Intro To What Makes A Great Library

Since 1978, I have worked as a library consultant and have had the privilege of visiting hundreds of libraries, from rural storefronts to the largest public and academic institutions, from small rooms in big buildings to beloved monuments to learning and culture. What do the best have in common?...Continue reading →

Don't Settle For One Passion

Love classical guitar music,
love helping people with their computers,
love watching dogs make friends in the dog park,
love cooking, love speaking to groups of students.
When one fails you, at work or at home, turn to another.
There is not just one way to enjoy life.

Intro To Diagnosing And Fixing Technology

Has an entire generation forgotten how to analyze a concrete problem, fix broken machines, adjust a recipe, or create workarounds for damaged equipment? The same principles apply to hardware, software, peripherals, and the Cloud, as well as copiers, cameras, lighting equipment, toasters, and interstellar laser beams....Continue reading →

Bully-Proofing Your Library

Whether you call it bullying, harassing, intimidating, stalking, threatening, tormenting, browbeating, needling, or pushing people around, commonsense calls it bad behavior. What steps need to be taken during your library's employment cycle and regarding the culture of your library to prevent bullying behavior? To address incidents with staff and...Continue reading →

Twelve Reasons To Do What You Love For A Living - By Nicole Fallon

Making a career out of something you love doing may sound like a pipe dream — or, at the very least, the exception to the rule. But whoever coined the phrase "do what you love and the money will follow" may have been on to something...Continue reading →
